Investing in Our Schools

Dr. Frank Donovan
Superintendent

We continue to improve our school facilities to make them more conducive to learning. We have installed brand new inclusive Kindergarten playgrounds at eight of our schools and we will be adding one more next year. These playgrounds have equipment that address the social emotional and sensory needs of our students while also providing better access for our students with physical challenges. One of the most popular activities during recess and lunch at any elementary school is handball. We have installed twelve new ball walls that will enable more students to play handball and interact with their friends during recess and lunch. We have replaced older portable classrooms with new ones, remodeled student bathrooms with new plumbing and hands free faucets, replaced roofs and playground asphalt.

We continue to provide a broad array of opportunities for students to get the academic support they need, but also to play and interact with their friends. All schools have new Lego Robots for their Lego Robotics programs, and sports and recreation programs are offered during recess and lunch and after school. While the activities vary from school to school, students have opportunities to play chess, soccer, handball, and many other interactive games and sports that address their social-emotional needs and build character.

We also continue to provide free, fresh hot meals that are prepared daily at each of our school sites. Breakfast, lunch, snacks and “supper” are provided every day during and after school. Our state of the art kitchens are busy preparing meals from early in the morning until the early evening.

Thanks to our dedicated staff and supportive Board of Trustees, the Magnolia School District continues to Inspire ALL Students to Extraordinary Achievement Every Day.

Back to school season has begun, and while the last few years have taught us valuable lessons about making predictions, it is noteworthy that this is the first new school year since 2019 to start without strict requirements for face coverings or contact tracing, bringing us closer to a more traditional school experience.

Moving forward, we must continue to be mindful of the less visible impacts of the pandemic, and our schools are well-equipped to do this. As students return, we know that many will be in need of accelerated learning, social-emotional interventions, counseling and access to wrap-around mental health services.

School employees who have been on the front lines also need support, stability and grace. And of course our families need expanded learning opportunities, robust communication from their schools and districts, and access to resources.

Certainly the last school year posed extraordinary challenges, and no two experiences were quite the same. Many of our students, families and school employees endured illness, disruption and personal loss on a scale that is unimaginable. Yet we also heard incredible stories of resilience, innovation and achievement in 2022.

At Westminster High School, for example, four students who were concerned about declining bee colonies were honored for their proposal to create a probiotic that can strengthen bees against insecticides. Earlier in the year, our own OCDE educators set up schools for about 60 newly arrived Afghan children whose families were forced to flee their home country after assisting U.S. troops or holding other positions that compromised their safety.

In districts and charter schools across the county, our students earned county, state and national recognition for devising solutions to real-world problems. They produced mental health videos, built highly innovative smartphone apps, designed electric vehicles, partnered with industry leaders for work-based learning opportunities, and expressed themselves through the visual and performing arts.

The success stories are too numerous to list here, but I would be remiss in not mentioning that two of California's five Teachers of the Year for 2022 were from Orange County, as were four of the state's top nine Classified School Employees of the Year.

Although this past school year tested us in so many ways, I am beyond proud of our schools for continuing to provide exceptional experiences for students and opportunities for them to shine. As we head into another fall, the sky's the limit on what we can accomplish together. Let's take care of one another and make it a great year.

Be Water Smart

The Anaheim City Council approved moving from Level I of Anaheim's Water Reduction Ordinance to Level II, in response to the state's executive order regarding prolonged drought conditions in California.

There are some water waste activities that are prohibited, as well as an outdoor watering schedule limited to 3 days per week.

Water Saving Measures

Leadership Day

We at Dr. Albert Schweitzer celebrated our first-ever Leadership Day in June. We had worked all year to teach students how to develop their leadership skills and habits. The culmination of our program was a day designed by students to exhibit these leadership skills.

The turnout was amazing, with approximately 250 people attending! Visitors watched student speeches and performances. They were escorted by student tour guides to different exhibitions of leadership throughout the school, where they saw how our students practice the 7 Habits. In the classrooms, visitors learned about Leadership Binders, which students use to set academic and personal goals and track their progress.

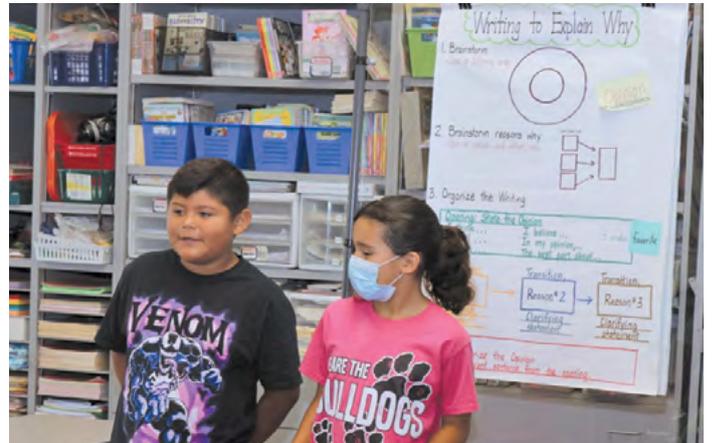

Schweitzer students began planning Leadership Day three months before the event. They decided what the visitors should see and divided into groups to make sure their vision came true. Some of the student groups included Invitations, Greeters, Food, Performance, Decorations, Clubs and Tour Guides. The planning groups were facilitated by staff members, but the ideas were provided by our students. For example, the Greeter group decided to send out a survey to find out which countries are represented here at Schweitzer. They collected the names of 30 countries and waved flags from all of them as they welcomed our guests.

They also decided to write the word Welcome in all these different languages on posters.

On Leadership Day, the students took charge of greeting visitors, checking them in, and serving them snacks. They put on a talent show and led tours for visitors to classrooms. Students shared their Leadership Binders and their academic goals.

Our Leadership Day was an opportunity to showcase our students' talents, abilities and skills. They got a chance to contribute their ideas to an event that was successful thanks to the synergy created by the students and staff. Thank you to all our students, our staff and the visitors who attended Leadership Day!

Salk Hoops It Up!

Salk Elementary school opened the school year with the Hoop It Up Kidz assembly. During this action-packed assembly, Salk students learned over 30 hoop tricks using dance music, dance moves, and the

F.U.N. approach (Fitness made fun, Uplifting and inspirational, and Nutrition). Healthy kids and healthy living are the messages that the assembly promotes. Students are given positive messages of self-esteem and anti-bullying. The ABCs of self-esteem reminds students to: Always be kind to others, Believe in yourself, and Celebrate your uniqueness. The assembly also creates a positive feeling of school unity with the message that “together anything is possible”. The students absolutely loved the assembly and were heard saying, “Can you please come back next year?”, “This was the BEST assembly ever”, and “I can’t wait to hula hoop at recess”. Salk is not sure who had more fun, the staff or the students?

It's a "Get To," not a "Have To"

Teaching students to develop a growth mindset is an ongoing practice that is as important as building an academic repertoire. With that in mind, Dr. Peter Marshall's theme this year is "Mindset is Everything!" This theme reminds our students and staff that we can reframe how we deal with the challenges that come our way. Marshall school is committed to embodying this vision! At our first meeting, teachers and support staff spent time thinking about the daily challenges and demands of working with students and how the experience and outcome of those situations can be drastically different when we choose the mindset "we get to..." instead of "we have to..." We recognize that our mindset is the foundation for our decisions and actions. At Marshall, we get to be positive and healthy in mind and body and express gratitude as we celebrate the successes of our Scotties along the way.

Admins committed to supporting each other and their staff through ever-evolving challenges.

Marshall Scotties embrace a growth mindset.

Eagles SOAR

On Friday, September 2, 2022, students in TK-sixth grade at Esther L. Walter Elementary School participated in SOAR day. Walter Eagles SOAR by being Safe, Open Arms, Academic, and Respectful. Students begin this annual event by rotating with their grade levels to various locations around the school campus such as the playground, lunch area, and walkways to learn and practice SOARing behaviors in each spot. During this time students earn SOAR tickets for answering questions and participating in presentations. After these outdoor stations students travel back to class to discuss and practice SOARing expectations in their own classrooms. Teachers prepare games and engaging activities to help students remember how to SOAR everywhere and all day long at Walter School. The day ends with a SOAR ticket raffle where students win prizes to celebrate their participation and behavior during this special day. Walter Eagles SOAR!

“Paw”sitively-Charged Leopards

Excitement and cheers filled all of the Juliet Low classrooms at the end of the last school year when the results of our newest uniform color were revealed! The students selected the color navy blue as the newest edition to our school’s academic and spirit wear. It will provide an additional option to the current traditional school colors of red and black.

Juliette Low School of the Arts promotes a standard academic and spirit attire to emphasize and focus on school safety, school pride, and academic success. These expectations have been aligned to the dress codes in the neighboring junior high and high schools. This choice has been widely supported by the staff and parents of our school community to help set our Leopards up for success.

There was a long line of parents who came to purchase these uniforms at the TK and Kinder Orientation and School Celebration event on the Friday before the first day of school. By Monday, many of the navy blue shirts and sizes in the traditional colors were beginning to sell out.

Our parents have commented that it was really nice to see all of the students coming onto the campus with their school colors on! It was especially noticeable to the parents as they observed their students playing together on the playground.

The students really love wearing their shirts with the school logo on it, too. There definitely is a sense of pride in knowing that you belong to a great school with an amazing staff and teachers. Stay “Paw”sitively Charged, Leopards!

Positive Push!

After a full year of in-person learning during 2021–22, Lord Baden-Powell School has begun its 2022–23 school year with a positive push. Students and staff arrived at school excited about the upcoming year, having had a full year of in-person learning with a focus on social-emotional well-being as the foundation for an amazing year to come. On day one, the excitement for the year ahead was felt by everyone.

The first week of school included classroom activities to get to know the students and teachers alike, establishing daily routines and reviewing key academic areas such as the writing domains, R.A.C.E, thinking maps and the scholarly traits through picture books in all grade levels. The week culminated with a schoolwide positive-behavior assembly and rotations around the school to review expectations throughout the campus. At the end of the day, students had an anti-bullying assembly where they learned about bullying behaviors, strategies to stop bullying, and how to solve minor conflicts with peers. It was a fun learning experience for every Roadrunner.

We are looking forward to an amazing school year at Lord Baden-Powell!

Welcome Back Students

The 2022-23 school year at Maxwell School began on Monday, August 29th. Our students and families were greeted outside of the school with decorated signs welcoming everyone back. Superintendent Dr. Frank Donovan was present to welcome back the Maxwell community along with principal Steve Pescetti. It was great seeing so many parents on campus to meet their child's teacher outside of the rooms before the bell rang. Once our classes began, Mr. Pescetti stopped by each room to welcome our students back for what should be a fantastic school year!

On Friday our students met in grade level groups for our Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS) rotations. In these grade level groups, our classes walked around our school to be reminded about our behavioral expectations for every part of the campus. (Arrival/dismissal, Cafeteria, Playground, etc.) Leading the discussions were teachers, our principal and our support staff.

We are ready for a great year that is positive and supportive to everyone in the Maxwell community!

Walt Disney TK and Kindergartners Express Excitement Over New Playground

During the summer, much construction took place, including a BRAND NEW Inclusive playground for our TK and Kindergarten students. An inclusive playground is a sensory rich environment that promotes physical, social, and emotional development. One of the best features of an inclusive playground is the welcoming feeling for all children, as it provides an opportunity for play regardless of ability or developmental stage. Students have many opportunities for playtime, such as the xylophone, the jumping jack equipment, a “rock” climbing wall, and of course slides and swings. Mrs. Tanis Raimondo, an experienced Kinder teacher shared, “It is wonderful to see these new kinder students enjoying all of the different activities offered with the inclusive playground. All students are finding excitement in the choices they have!”. So much fun is being had that our first - sixth grade students are jealous of the kindergartners this year! What a joy it is to hear beautiful music and see smiling children enjoying this neat new playground!

Two new friends are seeing if they can ring the bell with the golf ball.

A kindergarten student practices her climbing skills using the special climbing wall.

Some lucky friends make beautiful music together.

Uterine Fibroids are Common, But How Does it Affect Pregnancy and Fertility?

Elizabeth H West, M.D., obstetrics and gynecology
specialist, FACOG,
MemorialCare
Medical Group –
Douglas Park

Uterine fibroids are the most common noncancerous tumors in women of childbearing age. Approximately three million women in the United States have fibroids. Fibroids are made up of muscle cells and other tissues that grow in and around the wall of the uterus. Some women may experience symptoms if they have fibroids, such as:

- Heavy periods
- Feeling full in the lower abdomen
- Urinating often
- Lower back pain
- Reproductive problems

If a woman happens to experience symptoms of fibroids or if it is suspected that fibroids are present during a routine exam, tests may be ordered to help confirm the diagnosis, such as an ultrasound or an MRI.

Approximately 10 to 30 percent of women with fibroids develop complications during pregnancy. The most common complication of fibroids during pregnancy is pain.

Treatment for fibroids is decided on a case-by-case basis. It is based on the symptoms a person experiences, what is found during a routine pelvic exam, and the fibroids' size/shape/location.

During pregnancy, treatment for uterine fibroids is limited because of the risk to the baby. A treatment option for pregnant women is removing the fibroids during a C-section delivery. As this is a risky procedure, this is only done if necessary. The safest way to treat fibroids is to remove them before pregnancy or after the post-partum period.

If you're planning a pregnancy and have been diagnosed with fibroids or suspect you have them schedule an appointment with your doctor. Knowing if you have uterine fibroids before will help ensure that you and your baby are safe throughout the pregnancy.
