Unified School Games Unite 13 SVUSD Schools in a Celebration of Inclusion and Teamwork

Dr. Crystal Turner
Superintendent

Thirteen schools from the Saddleback Valley Unified School District came together for the 6th annual Unified School Games, hosted at Trabuco Hills High School on April 24. With more than 700 students in attendance, the event was a vibrant celebration of inclusivity, teamwork, and school spirit.

The day was packed with fun and engaging Unified Sports activities, including Unified Flag Football, Cheer, Fitness, Catching and Throwing, Water Relays, and Soccer. Students of all abilities had the opportunity to participate side by side in a supportive and spirited environment, exemplifying the power of inclusion.

Today, the SVUSD Unified School Games stands as one of the largest Unified Champion School events in Southern California—a testament to the district's strong commitment to fostering inclusive opportunities for all students.

The success of the Unified Games was made possible through the collaboration of SVUSD Unified teacher liaisons, administrators, district and school staff, school board members, activity directors, and students. A special thanks goes to Kara Johnson, Trabuco Hills High School special education teacher, whose leadership and unwavering commitment to all things Unified continue to elevate inclusion efforts across the district.

SVUSD is proud to lead the charge in fostering inclusive school environments through Unified programs. The Unified Champion Schools initiative, supported by Special Olympics Southern California, brings inclusive sports, whole-school engagement, and youth leadership opportunities to SVUSD campuses. These efforts create meaningful connections and shared experiences that benefit all students—those with and without disabilities.

Celebrating Teachers and Classified Employees

The Board of Education at its April 3, 2025, meeting adopted resolutions to recognize and honor the many contributions of the Saddleback Valley Unified School District (SVUSD) Teachers as well as Classified Employees. In addition, SVUSD administration created a new employee recognition program born out of its Leadership Academy. The Leadership

Academy is held on an annual basis for certificated and classified staff members interested in transitioning into leadership roles. The Class of 2024 Leadership Academy developed several ideas in collaboration with the SVUSD administrative team to be able to recognize staff for their length of service and commitment to SVUSD, the community, and, most importantly, the students we serve. SVUSD administration started earlier in the year identifying those who have worked in the district 35 years or more. Most recently, we have recognized staff members working 30-34 years in the district. Congratulations to all of our most recent recipients. The SVUSD administrative team is currently identifying those who have worked in the district 25-29 years and will be recognizing them once all information has been verified. We look forward to continuing these celebrations on an ongoing basis. Recipients are receiving a pin with the number of years served and a certificate to commemorate their efforts.

Listening to Our Students and Families: SVUSD LCAP Engagement

This year, Saddleback Valley Unified School District worked hard to include more voices in our Local Control and Accountability Plan (LCAP) process. A big part of this effort included holding special focus groups where students, families, and staff could share their thoughts and ideas. District leaders visited every high school and met with student groups, hearing directly from 388 high school students across SVUSD. At each meeting, students shared what is working well and where the district can do better. Every comment was carefully listened to and recorded to help shape our plans for the future. These important conversations help to ensure that our schools provide what our students and families need the most.

Parent Training Series

This school year, La Tierra Early Childhood Center hosted a series of seven monthly parent trainings to support and empower families of young children with diverse needs. The sessions covered a range of essential topics including Physical development, Speech and Language Development, Behavior Support, Potty Training, Understanding the IEP Process and Supporting the Transition from Preschool to Transitional Kindergarten and Kindergarten. The presentations provided families with information about how they can support their child's development in the home and community.

Each training was led by knowledgeable and compassionate specialists who provided practical strategies and answered questions with care and clarity. Recognizing the importance of accessibility, all sessions were offered in Spanish to ensure that every family could benefit from the information. The response from those in attendance was overwhelmingly positive. La Tierra's commitment to family engagement continues to strengthen the bridge between home and school.

Celebrating Orange County's 2026 Teachers of the Year

Dr. Stefan Bean
Superintendent

Most of us can point to a teacher who changed our lives — someone who saw us clearly and believed in what we could become.

For me, that teacher was Donald Geisinger. As a newly adopted Vietnamese orphan in a wheelchair and still learning English, I struggled to find my footing. In sixth grade, Mr. Geisinger told me not to worry about any of that. Instead, he encouraged me to give oral presentations.

That invitation changed everything. I gained confidence, improved my English and discovered a love of public speaking. A few years later, I spoke in Washington, D.C., representing youth with disabilities — all because a teacher believed in me.

This month, I had the privilege of celebrating six Orange County educators who are making that same kind of impact every day. As we surprised each of them on May 1 with the news that they'd been named 2026 Orange County Teachers of the Year, I saw that same spark — the unmistakable bond between teacher and student.

At every stop, the energy was electric. Students cheered, staff members teared up, and each honoree stood in humble disbelief. These weren't just moments of recognition — they were powerful reminders of what can happen when a teacher truly connects with their students.

Our 2026 honorees reflect the very best of what teaching looks like across Orange County.

Tracy Havens, a second-grade teacher at Hicks Canyon Elementary in Tustin Unified, begins each day with high-fives, hugs and a Morning Meeting that sets the tone for connection and growth.

At Fullerton College, Dr. Catherine Reinhardt-Zacair introduces her French students to study abroad opportunities, internships and global experiences that expand their horizons and confidence.

Megan Lee, who teaches transitional kindergarten at Loara Elementary in Anaheim Elementary School District, builds a strong sense of community from day one — hosting family meetups, pairing students with preschool buddies and making sure every child feels seen and valued.

Jeannette Aguilera, a third-grade teacher at Centralia Elementary, draws on her experience as a first-generation college graduate to empower students through daily community circles and a focus on growth mindset.

At Ladera Vista Junior High in Fullerton, Darcy Blake uses literature and creative writing to spark empathy, voice and self-discovery — inviting students to share their stories and explore tough topics in a safe, supportive space.

And at San Clemente High School, Erin Bro has led the AVID program for over 15 years, helping first-generation college-goers gain skills, direction and belief in their ability to succeed — with a 100 percent college acceptance rate for her students.

Each of these educators was selected from a pool of district-level honorees through a thoughtful review and interview process, and they'll be formally celebrated this fall at a gala sponsored by SchoolsFirst Federal Credit Union at the Disneyland Hotel.

There, each Teacher of the Year will receive a $25,000 award from the Orange County Teachers of the Year Award Foundation — a program established by the William, Jeff and Jennifer Gross Family Foundation.

They're also now in the running for California Teacher of the Year — an honor that has gone to six Orange County teachers since 2019. That legacy speaks to the exceptional work happening in our schools every day, and this year's honorees are clearly part of that tradition.

A lot of profound words were exchanged on May 1, but sometimes a student delivers the day's best line. Aguilera's third-grade class decided that if their teacher had been named Teacher of the Year, they must be the Students of the Year. One student, noting that their teacher was expecting a child, proudly added, "That's the Baby of the Year."

It was a joyful moment — and a reminder that teaching is about more than lessons and standards. It's about relationships, belief and the lasting impact of a caring educator.

To this year's Teachers of the Year: Thank you for showing up, lifting others and reminding us all of what's possible when a teacher truly believes.

Rock the Test

Cielo Vista Elementary kicked off CAASPP testing with an exciting “Rock the Test” week, designed to motivate and prepare students for success. The week featured a variety of activities that built enthusiasm and focus.

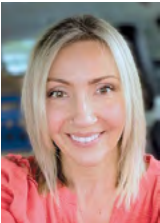

Students signed an autograph wall and wrote personal goals on their “tickets to success.” Lower grade classes, the PTA, and families created encouraging posters that were displayed throughout the campus. To mark the first day of testing, each classroom rolled out a red carpet to welcome students in style. On the Friday before testing began, staff and students dressed like rock stars and celebrated more than 100 students—alongside their families—who had demonstrated excellence on the 2023–24 CAASPP. These students were also honored during the monthly HAWKS assembly. Way to go, HAWKS! We can’t wait to watch you ROCK THE TEST this year too!

De Portola Elementary Celebrates 2025 California Distinguished School Honor

We are proud to share that De Portola Elementary has been recognized as a 2025 California Distinguished School! Our students continue to achieve at high levels, earning Blue performance ratings in both English Language Arts and Math. Among the highlights, our students with disabilities showed exceptional growth, advancing enough in both subjects to move from the Yellow to the Blue performance band on the state dashboard.

We also foster strong student leadership through programs like PAL (Peer Assistance Leadership) and Student Council, with over 75 students leading initiatives to create an inclusive and welcoming campus. Our positive climate is supported by SEL and PBIS programs, with STAR expectations that emphasize Safety, Taking Responsibility, Kindness, and Respect.

Strengthened by family and community partnerships, we continue to grow and thrive. Staff, students, and families remain united in their commitment to excellence, inclusion, and leadership, building a bright future together.

Diving into Careers: Del Cerro's RIASEC Adventure!

I'm thrilled to share exciting developments in our Career Connected Schools initiative. This month, we welcomed Ed Hidalgo from Connect the Work, who introduced the RIASEC personality assessment model to our five pilot classrooms.

Students discovered their unique RIASEC codes—identifying themselves as Realistic, Investigative, Artistic, Social, Enterprising, or Conventional—which helped them understand how their personal interests connect to potential career paths. Through collaborative centers, students explored activities aligned with different RIASEC types and discussed how these interests might shape their futures.

The energy in these classrooms was palpable! Students were engaged and excited to learn about themselves in this new context. One sixth grader remarked, "I learned that I was Enterprising, Social and Investigative, which matches my goal of being a lawyer!"

This is just the beginning of our career-connected learning journey. We look forward to expanding this program and helping all Del Cerro students discover their unique strengths and interests.

CA Green Ribbon School

El Toro High School (ETHS) has been named a 2025 California Green Ribbon School by the California Department of Education. The recognition celebrates ETHS's efforts in reducing environmental impact, promoting health and wellness, and integrating sustainability into student learning.

El Toro now joins Santiago and Trabuco elementary schools as SVUSD's third Green Ribbon School—a testament to the district's growing leadership in environmental stewardship.

ETHS has made major strides in campus sustainability, including installing solar panels, upgrading to energy-efficient lighting, and reducing water usage by 42%. The school also diverts 50% of its waste from landfills and has moved toward digital tools to cut down on paper usage. Health and wellness initiatives include the use of green cleaning products, upgraded HVAC systems, and The rETreat—a dedicated student wellness center created in partnership with the Children's Hospital of Orange County and the Orange County Department of Education.

Sustainability is also woven into the student experience at ETHS. Through the STEAM Academy and Green Campus Action Plans, students are encouraged to tackle real-world challenges through project-based learning and cross-disciplinary coursework.

"Being named a 2025 California Green Ribbon School is a profound honor that reflects our unwavering commitment to sustainability, student wellness, and environmental education," Principal Dr. Jimmy Martin shared. "This recognition celebrates the collective efforts of our students, staff, and community in creating a learning environment that not only educates but also inspires stewardship of our planet. We are proud to stand among California's leading schools dedicated to fostering a greener, healthier future for all."

This recognition is a proud milestone for ETHS and a reflection of SVUSD's continued commitment to creating greener, healthier learning environments.

Mel's incredible 39-year career includes 25 impactful years at Esperanza (1999-2025), where he enriched the school community by planning countless dances, advising ASB for 12 years, composing original music, and fostering community engagement. Spring Fun Fest Brings Joy and Fun to Our School Community

This year's Spring Fun Fest brought the community together for an unforgettable evening full of fun, food, and festivities. The "Wicked" theme cast a playful, whimsical atmosphere across the school's blacktop, filling the space with colorful decorations, creative games, and lively entertainment that kept smiles on every face. Students, families, and neighbors enjoyed an afternoon of classic carnival games, hands-on crafts, upbeat music, and a mouthwatering selection of snacks.

Local vendors added even more excitement by lining the grounds with booths offering handmade crafts, community services, and sweet treats, turning the event into a true celebration of local spirit and talent. Everywhere you looked, there were signs of community — kids laughing with friends, parents catching up, and volunteers working hard behind the scenes to make the event run smoothly.

More than just an event, the Spring Fun Fest has become a beloved annual tradition that showcases the heart of our school.

Thank You Volunteers

Gates has amazing volunteers who plan memorable events. At the SVUSD community recognition event, we celebrated PTA president Kelly Miclot and a parent who is a playground assistant and representative for our dual immersion parent group, Silvia Flores. We began the year with our Día De Los Muertos event with food, music, traditional Baile Folklórico dancing, and altars or "ofrendas" to honor loved ones who have died. In winter, there was a traditional Mexican "Las Posadas" event with games like "lotería", food, and of course...Baile Folklórico. In May, Children's Day is celebrated with "Festival de los Niños" in which every class breaks a piñata, and there is food, music, community resources, and representatives from consulates such as Mexico and Spain. We end the year with a giant overnight family campout. Families sleep in tents, kids participate in a nighttime flashlight hike, and the night ends with delicious s'mores. We couldn't do all of this without our parent volunteers.

Celebrating 50 Years

Last month, Glen Yermo Elementary proudly celebrated its 50th anniversary with a memorable evening showcase and family picnic. The event brought together past, present, and future families and staff, including three former teachers and staff who helped open the school in 1974. Guests enjoyed food, festivities, and a walk down memory lane.

A highlight of the evening was the unveiling of a beautiful new hallway mural, designed and painted by school staff. Every current student left their mark on the mural with a handprint, creating a vibrant symbol of community and connection.

Adding to the excitement, the school recently discovered a hidden time capsule behind a wall plaque. Inside were class lists from 1974, documents from Saddleback Valley, the Mission Viejo Company, and the local Masonic lodge — offering a fascinating glimpse into the school's early days.

Here's to 50 years — and many more to come!

as students signed our Inclusion Pledge poster and enjoyed Otter Pops at lunch. Wednesday focused on Communication Awareness with fun activities and a thrilling Leopard Hunt!

Thursday, our amazing Unified athletes competed at THHS, showing true teamwork and sportsmanship. We wrapped up Friday by lighting up the campus blue for Autism Awareness, hosting a sensory booth at snack, and dancing and playing games during our lunch celebration.

LFE Celebrates Campus Transformation with Ribbon Cutting

Lake Forest Elementary School celebrated the completion of its modular building project with a ribbon-cutting ceremony led by Principal Caryn McGrew. "This project is more than new buildings—it's an investment in the future of our school and community," Principal McGrew remarked during the ceremony. The upgrades include a reimagined Innovation Lab, modern classrooms, and outdoor learning spaces designed to enhance the school's commitment to STEM education.

The transformation aligns with Lake Forest Elementary's forward-thinking approach, providing "Dolphins" with expanded opportunities for hands-on

Student Advocate

Last year, inquisitive Kindergarten student, Reed Wallace, noticed that trash trucks come to Melinda Heights each week, but not recycling trucks. Knowing that recycling trucks come to his home, he wondered about recycling at his school. His mom, Jill Kingdon, began a fact-finding mission that evolved into advocacy. Good ideas and perseverance pay off. Now in first grade, Reed and his mom have partnered with MHES principal, custodial staff, and PTA to kick-off a pilot recycling program at the school that will go school-wide in 2025-2026. In front of over 1,000 students and staff, Reed proudly spoke about the program at a recent Power of the Paw assembly. He then delivered blue recycling bins to all first and fourth grade classrooms. MHES is well on its way to greater learning about stewardship for our environment due to the voice of one small student who asked questions and shared ideas.

Montevideo Young Historians at Work!

This week, our 4th grade scholars have been reading the historical children's book titled, "Patty Reed's Doll." It tells the story of Patty Reed, a young girl who traveled with the Donner Party during their westward journey to California in the mid 1800's. This narrative is centered around Patty's doll, which becomes a symbol of hope and comfort amid the hardships they faced.

We had classroom pioneer life simulations where students experienced various aspects of pioneer life. They learned about a cozy morning on the trail when Patty's mother made bacon and Johnny Cakes fried in beef tallow—can you imagine waking up to those smells? Their mouths watered as they enjoyed eating these delicious pioneer recipes. Then they began building their own "Palace Car" (also known as a wagon) and made simple crafts that pioneers would have made, such as weaving, or making simple tools.

Student-Designed Duckweed Experiment Launches to the International Space Station

Middle school students from Serrano Intermediate School in Lake Forest, California, and Larson Middle School in Troy, Michigan, launched a unique science experiment to the International Space Station (ISS) on April 21 aboard SpaceX CRS-32.

Their research explores how microgravity affects the growth of Lemna minor, or duckweed—a small, fast-growing aquatic plant with promising applications for future space missions.

Guided by science teachers Bev Berekian (Serrano Intermediate) and Colleen Cain (Larson Middle School) through the Space for Teachers Embedded Teacher Project (ETP), students collaborated across 2,000 miles to develop and test their experiment. “The work we’ve accomplished from opposite sides of the country is a powerful testament to long-term research opportunities,” said Berekian.

The experiment, housed in a Voyager Space Mixstix, will be activated by astronauts aboard the ISS. Students will later compare space-grown samples to those on Earth, gaining firsthand experience in scientific inquiry, data analysis, and collaboration—mirroring real NASA research practices.

New Swag!

The Eagles are flying toward the end of the school year and graduation. At Open House we welcomed families and friends to our campus to visit classrooms and participate in our student award night. Open House led us into Spring Break, but before we left for break, ASB sponsored an Egg Hunt. Students searched for eggs which were stuffed with candy, PBIS points or both. Our PBIS team, in partnership with PALS, hosted a spring movie party. With their teachers' approval, students were able to purchase tickets to the Spring movie which included movie themed snacks. Silverado students participated in the Saddleback College Senior Day on April 22nd. They toured the campus, visited vendor booths and enjoyed learning about the different programs Saddleback College offers. Lastly, this past weekend Mr. Gordon attended the California Continuation Education Association Gala where he was awarded the Silverado Model School plaque and banner. Charting a Future Beyond High School: College and Career Readiness at SVA

At SVUSD Virtual Academy (SVA), students chart their own course in a flexible, supportive, and engaging online learning environment. A key part of SVA's mission is to prepare students for success beyond high school—whether in college, career, or both.

Now in its fifth year, SVA's Early College Pathway (ECP) partnership with Saddleback College offers students the opportunity to earn both high school and college credit, along with industry-recognized certificates in Business and Cybersecurity. Starting next year, the program will expand to include a new pathway in Sports Nutrition, allowing students to earn a Certificate of Achievement through Saddleback's Nutrition Department.

SVA also launched a new initiative this year to prepare students for the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP). The program began with psychology and will expand next year to include English and American Government. A passing CLEP exam score can earn students college credit at over 2,900 colleges and universities, including all California State University (CSU) campuses. Even better—thanks to a partnership with Modern States, the CLEP exam is completely free for participating students.

These programs reflect SVA's commitment to offering flexible, forward-thinking opportunities that empower students to get ahead—academically and professionally. Whether pursuing college credit, industry certification, or simply exploring areas of interest, students at SVUSD Virtual Academy graduate with real-world experience and a head start on their future.

Mindfulness Garden

The natural environment surrounding us on campus at Trabuco Elementary is extremely important to our school community. One of the natural areas on our campus is our mindfulness garden. For our Earth Day celebration on April 22, a plant was donated for each student to add to our mindfulness garden to support the use of nature and our five senses as a way to promote calm, reflection, and emotional well-being. Students were encouraged to observe the textures, colors, and scents of the plants they added, and many shared how peaceful and connected they felt while working in the garden.

We are so thankful for our parent volunteers who planned this special celebration of nature, and to our donors for the supplies. It was a beautiful way for our school to come together, give back to the earth, and grow something meaningful—both literally and emotionally. We look forward to watching our mindfulness garden flourish throughout the seasons, just like our students do.

Celebrating Students

We are proud to host monthly STRIVE assemblies to celebrate students exceeding our expectations. On what is typically the last Friday of each month, each of our big and little Oranges gather in The Grove to recognize students nominated by their teachers for achieving excellence with our STRIVE rules. Several students from each grade level are acknowledged for their striving to be Respectful, Responsible, and Safe. Honored students join Student Council members to receive their STRIVE certificates and recognition. Our mascot "Squirt" is also there to cheer each student onto the stage with the rest of the attendees joining in applause. Each student's family is invited to join the ceremony and take pictures to commemorate their work prior to our ceremony ending. We love to honor our STRIVE students!

The Selfie

Many years ago, when one wanted an image of oneself, an artist was hired. There was a rumor that because these artists charged by the limb, the term it costs an arm and a leg came about. If one could not afford an artist, the practice of silhouettes became popular — tracing a shadow of a profile on a piece of black paper and then cutting it out. The 19th century saw a breakthrough with the photographic camera that produced an image on a plate of glass.

These first cameras required one to sit or stand very still for a long period to expose the plate. Therefore, the old tin plates never showed one smiling, for the smile would not hold and would distort the final result. Photographers were used during the Crimean War in the 1850s and were widely used during the American Civil War. Most of the battlefield photo plates were too graphic for the public, so the glass plates were used to make greenhouses.

The next big jump in the camera came with the Eastman Company and paper film. Eastman-Kodak produced the Brownie Box camera that was affordable. The camera was sent off for development and later turned into a disposable camera. The next innovation was the Polaroid camera with self-developing film. The photos often had one person left out of the picture, so the time delay was invented to include everyone at the same time. The camera operator would set the timer and then run to get into the picture frame. Each new change allowed for a faster image and development, so that today, we have the digital age.

The digital camera allows one to take still photos and videos with the same device. This new invention created a fad—the selfie. One would hold out their arm and take a picture of themselves. Then, people felt that their arms were not long enough, so the selfie stick was invented. Social behavior shifted from respect of someone else's photo to a craze of "photo-bombing" other people's photos. It isn't unusual now for people to take photos of their meals, items in a store they are considering buying or want to share with others... So, smile! Now there are cameras everywhere!
